

DEMOCRACY TO BE FORGOTTEN

Representative Rodenberg Of Illinois, Arraigns The Followers Of Bryanism.

SPEECH FULL OF BITING SARCASTIC

Characterizes Bryan As The Old Man Of The Sea With A Strange Hold On The Party He Seeks To Govern.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, D. C., April 27.—The democrats and Bryan J. Bryan in particular were criticised in the House of Representatives today by Mr. Rodenberg of Illinois. He began by referring to "the terror that struck his soul" when as a new member he "trembled with fear as some democratic member, in deep sepulchral tones, that, smacked of the gloomy depths of the etherless tomb, arose in his seat and, assuming the attitude of Ajax defying the lightning, hurled anathema upon another man at our devoted heads and predicted the overthrow, swift, sure and immediate of the republican majority in this house. In the still small hours of the slumberless night my tortured soul cried out aloud: 'O Lord, what must I do to be saved.' It is all different now. Democracy's dismal and doleful note of warning, which from this immemorial has been sounded in this chamber at regular intervals of two years, no longer terrifies—it simply amuses. What once was high tragedy is now only comic opera."

Launching into an analysis of "what is a democracy," Mr. Rodenberg said that the average democratic statesman always had been a disciple of the doctrine of despair. "His face is ever turned towards the butting and not the rising sun. He is never so much at peace with himself as when he is quarrelling with someone else. Instinctively, he prefers a funeral dirge to a wedding march, and believes that the song of the dying swan would make a most glorious national anthem. He is happy only when his fellow men are sad. Night after night he sends up a fervent petition to the Great White Throne, asking the good Lord above to visit his children with some great disaster, such as fire, or fever, or flood, or famine, or drought, or earthquake shock, or ocean storm, for in a visitation, of that kind his morbid and melancholy mind thinks it sees some promising political possibilities."

Mr. Rodenberg said that the democrats were trying to extract some comfort out of the fact that the republicans were not a unit, as to who should lead them to victory in November, but he was proud to state that the republican party was not the personal asset of any individual. No man, he asserted, held a mortgage on its principles, its policies or its purposes, and it had never leased a commission in perpetuity to anyone to write its platform and do all its thinking. "Thank God," he exclaimed, "it has never been afflicted with a political blindfold, an Old Man of the Sea, who has secured a strange hold on its windpipe and choked it into subject submission to his every whim and caprice. In all its history the republican party had never developed a perennial Disappearing Leader who arrogates to himself the sole power of political excommunication." The democrats, he declared, long since had lost their courage, independence and manhood. "You have," he said addressing the "democrats," been compelled to accept Bryan with all his idiosyncrasies or suffer the consequences of his mighty wrath. You have not been converted; you are still the same old Soul of Tarsus. But your fogged loyalty went last. You can't keep up the delusion. The history of the democratic party teaches us that the glory of today is the pathos of tomorrow." He spoke of Grover Cleveland, in that connection, as "the uncrowned hero" to whom the democrats swore undying fealty and devotion, but, he said, "when I contemplate the fate of Grover Cleveland, when I recall the once high estate of that discarded and forgotten idol of yours, then indeed do I feel sorry for one William Jennings Bryan." The day would come, he predicted, and it was not far distant, when Bryan would be made to walk the gangplank of democratic degradation and go to his political grave, "unhonored, unwept and unsung." He gloried in the fact that the republican party always had been opposed on principle "to the incorporation of a presidential nomination trust" and that there was a division among republicans as to the personality of their candidate for president.

Tracing the developments of the last several presidential campaigns, Mr. Rodenberg further referring to Mr. Bryan and his paper, The Commonwealth, as well, said that he didn't know just what the paramount issue this year would be, but he was prepared "for almost any old thing." "I wouldn't be surprised," he said, "to find in the democratic platform this year a declaration to the effect that the only clean, legitimate, untainted money in the United States is that which is derived from the lecture platform and from the publication of The Commonwealth, a newspaper which, with a becoming sense of modesty seldom mentions the name of its editor or of more than one hundred times in any issue."

Mr. Rodenberg held up two copies of The Commonwealth, in one of which he said Bryan's name was mentioned 125 times and in the other 108 times.

"Much stress will no doubt be laid on democracy's pretended friendship for labor. Crocodile tears will be shed in great abundance by the democratic spellbinder in 1908 as he tells of the heroic efforts of the minority in this house to enact legislation in behalf of the horny-handed sons of toil, and yet an examination of the record will disclose the fact that the only place in this country where labor is underpaid, where the efforts of workmen to organize themselves into unions meet with determined opposition, and where few laws favorable to the cause of toil have been incorporated into the statutes, are the states that have never given an electoral vote to the republican party."

Mr. Rodenberg closed by contrasting Bryan and Roosevelt, asserting there was nothing in common between them. "One is the antithesis of the other, Roosevelt is a practical statesman, the other an impractical dreamer; one is patriotic, the other is simply multitudinous; one is constructive, the other destructive; one believes in intelligent action, the other in unintelligent inaction."

UNCLE SAM: "Congress has a darned queer idea about fixing things."

EX-CHIEF COLLINS PLACED ON TRIAL

Former Police Chief and Police Attorney on Trial for Conspiracy.
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Chicago, April 27.—John M. Collins and Frank D. Comerford, former police chief and police attorney of Chicago, were placed on trial before Judge McSherry today, on charges of conspiracy to defraud the city. The charges resulted from the investigation and shakeup in the police department that followed the election of Mayor Burke a year ago. Almost 400 witnesses have been summoned in the case, which is expected to run through about six weeks. Other cases in which ex-Chief Collins, Attorney Comerford and others are defendants are on the criminal court call to follow the present conspiracy charges. Their trial probably will be tentative on the outcome of the present case, which is considered the strongest one against the former city officials.

ARKANSAS TO FAVOR THE BIG SECRETARY

State Committee Has Already Expressed Its Preference for Taft.
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Hot Springs, Ark., April 27.—Hot Springs has completed all arrangements for entertaining the republican state convention which is to meet here tomorrow for the purpose of selecting the delegates at large to the national convention in Chicago next June. The state committee has already declared its preference for Secretary Taft for the presidential nomination and it is expected the example set by the committee will be followed by the convention. If the program of the delegates will be instructed for the secretary of war.

Gen. Powell Clayton, H. L. Remmel, Captain E. W. Tucker and John E. Bush are slated for delegates at large. With the exception of Gen. Clayton all are holding federal positions in Little Rock. Mr. Remmel being United States marshal for that district, Captain Tucker internal revenue collector of the state and John E. Bush receiver of the United States land office in Little Rock. If these four men are selected it will violate the custom of former years, which has always been to send one negro delegate at large to every national convention.

MAD KING OF BAVARIANS REACHES SIXTIETH YEAR

Most Pitiful Story Of Modern History...Has Been Insane For Forty-Two Years.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Berlin, April 27.—King Otto of Bavaria today attained his sixtieth birthday, and Munich, with other Bavarian cities, displayed mourning in honor of the occasion, many Bavarians had a review of the troops and drank to the health of the king, who remains shut up in the celebrated castle of Furstentried as mad as the proverbial March hare. Many and varied have been the reports circulated for years in regard to the condition of the unfortunate monarch. Stories of his good physical health and improved mental condition have followed close on the heels of half-raising accounts of how in his violent spells he had slain his keepers. According to the best information that can be obtained here King Otto remains in practically the same mental state in which he has been for nearly forty years. At times he is inclined to violence, but for the most part he spends his days in idle dreaming and in smoking strong cigars. All of the medical experts who have examined him have pronounced him incurable. His physical health, however, remains such that he may live for many years to come.

A Pitiful Story
The story of King Otto is one of the most pitiful in modern history. It is the story of a monarch who never wore his crown and never sat on his throne, whose magnificent mountain palaces near Munich have been his own madhouses since the age of 28. The king was born sixty years ago today, his father being Maximilian II., and his mother a Princess Marie of Prussia. It is from his father's side of the house that he has inherited that taint of insanity which has made the ancient house of Wittelsbach one of the most decadent dynasties in Europe. It has been said that Hamlet was a level-headed youth compared with some of the later Wittelsbachs, especially Ludwig II., who, as a youth of 19, succeeded his father, Maximilian II., in 1864.

Military Ambition
Three years younger than his brother, Otto, who was then Crown Prince, was in many respects a more amiable character. But his disapproval tended to complete the collapse of what little intellect he was ever endowed with. Leaving his brother the king to revel in a poetic fairyland, to build himself fairy-like palaces, and set up theaters for Richard Wagner, Otto became possessed with the illusion that he was destined to be a great soldier. The Franco-German war broke out when he was 22, and he felt his chance had come.

In Pathetic Retirement
Soon afterward Otto was removed to the mountain palace of Furstentried, and there he still spends his weary years, a hopeless lunatic. He is always waited upon with all the ceremony proper to his lofty rank, but his occupations are pitiful to see. A victim to sleeplessness, he often spends his nights in talking to himself, or singing in a voice that is said to be really beautiful, for the love of music is in his very blood.

John Mulendyke to be Examined by Doctors—Sent to Hospital For Two Days.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Milwaukee, Wis., April 27.—With great roll himself to the pouring rain Friday night on the corner of Thirty-third and Elm streets and when seen by Patrolman Sizer was walking round in a small circle, his hat in one hand and his clothes and umbrella in the other. The rain was pouring down upon him and he was wet to the skin but nothing daunted, he kept up his senseless tramp. "Here, what are you doing?" asked the policeman. "Yes, Mr. Cop, I'm gettin' baptized." "Baptized?" asked the surprised policeman. "Yes, sir, come on in, the water is fine. You know when y're getting initiated into anything y' have to do the stunt y' are told to do." "You are plucked," returned Sizer, sizing up the situation. "This is the second part of your initiation," and he brought the enthusiast to a box and called a hasty wagon. The third degree is to be administered but the man's condition was evidently bad and Judge Neelan asked Dr. A. F. Young to examine him. The physician advised a retirement for two days in the emergency hospital before the degree was administered.

GARDEN TIME IS APPROACHING

COLD RAINS DELAY PLANTS BUT WARM WEATHER IS NEAR.

EVERYTHING HAS SPROUTED

Amateur Gardener Did Not Have Time to Dig Up His Seeds to See if They Were Growing. They Sprouted Too Quickly.
Gardners who planted their vegetable and flower seeds ten days ago or later can now see the tiny sprouts out of the ground. The warm sun and rains of last week did wonders for everything including the building trees. While Sunday's rain was cold it will not delay the growing if followed by warm, sunny days. A few more suggestions are made for the amateurs who are having their gardens this year for the first time and persons who desire to make their homes beautiful by the addition of flowers and shrubs.

Sweet Alyssum.
This low growing, hardy, white flowered and very fragrant annual is much used for edgings, window boxes, and the like. It is of the easiest culture, and thrives best in a garden of moderate fertility. A double flowering variety has been produced, which is excellent for window boxes and for growing in pots and may be obtained from most florists.

The Seeds.
Seed of the single sweet alyssum may be sown as early as the ground can be prepared in the spring. The plant begins to bloom when two or three inches high and continues flowering until frost. It rarely reaches more than a foot high. In the fall the plants should have bloomed all summer may be cut back and put in pots where they will flower all winter. Better results for winter flowering may be obtained by planting seed in August, September or October. There are some yellow flowered varieties of this plant useful for prominent edgings and rock work.

Shrubbery Planting.
Shrubbery as a rule is used as a frame for a lawn, and the design of the shrubbery frame should be founded on the same principles as any other frame—a picture frame, the border of a rug, etc. That is, the frame should harmonize with the picture it encloses. The average shrubbery plantation defies this doctrine and is a thing of shreds and patches made of shrubs haphazardly planted with little regard to the effect of the shape, color and general appearance of one on the whole.

How to Choose.
In choosing plants to grow side by side, consider the foliage and flowers as carefully as you consider the shape of the bush. Do not put huge masses of light green foliage next to masses of dark, or you have a patchy effect. By choosing your shrubs carefully with regard to flowering time, the border may be made a delight in the summer, with one or more shrubs always in blossom. Two shrubs that flower at the same time should not be placed close together if the color of their flowers clash.

Watch Closely.
One of the best methods of perfecting your shrubbery border is to take note of it during the summer and decide how the general effect may be improved by the addition or transplanting of specimens. When a plant flowering in June is needed, place a stake labeled "2 white (or other color) flower, June, tall (or low)" and whatever other specifications you wish the new specimen to meet. In the fall you may go to your nurseryman and purchase the plant that exactly meets your needs. This sort of care in choosing the plants which adorn your home grounds will never be regretted.

The Roses.
The LaFrance rose, once regarded as the most beautiful of all in color, form and fragrance, and remarkably freedom of bloom, is still a favorite for bedding use. It is blossoms are delightful when cut. It flowers constantly, is silvery pink, and one of the best varieties for the rose garden.

Closely allied to La France is Mrs. Caroline Testout, which is an prolific of bloom, but of a deeper shade of pink. It is more rugged than LaFrance, the shrubs being very thorny. It grows taller, in well prepared soil the flowers are very large.
Killarney is an Irish rose which has made wonderful progress in popularity since its introduction. It is of vigorous habit, yielding beautifully large, of large size, long and tapering and of a lovely color—almost a flesh pink. The buds are borne on long, curved stems and the flowers are excellent for cutting. This variety is a favorite for greenhouse culture and does unusually well outdoors.

Grass and Peppert is an ideal bedding rose, a vigorous, free blooming climber, of good foliage. It produces medium sized, fragrant flowers. Even in the first year its flowers are fine, but after it has attained age this variety shows its full value. It needs protection, hilling up with earth and straw, and covering with evergreen boughs or straw in the winter.

TOBACCO OUTLOOK IMPROVING DAILY; MUCH PURCHASING

Buyers Still Engaged in Picking up New Crops—Talk of the Coming Season.

According to the Edgerton Tobacco Reporter, buyers are still quite busily engaged throughout the state in the movement that bids fair to clean up the remaining portion of the '07 crop. Another big slice has certainly been taken out of the unsold fraction during the week. Competition is getting a little more brisk and possibly the average price a trifle higher but the great bulk of the buying is yet done at bargain figures. We could fill a page of sales running from 4 to 6 cents, but rather give space to those of the better grades that indicate some profit to the grower and yet show the price taken.

Business at the picking points is progressing slowly owing to the scarcity of warehouse help that is surely prolonging the handling season far beyond the usual limits.

The market for cured leaf is not without some movement, but generally in small lots to accommodate urgent needs of manufacturers. Packers are still hoping for a revival of trade.

The plant beds for another crop are now mostly laid and the weather of the week is especially favorable to early germination. In some localities young plants are already appearing.

The shipments out of storage reach 144 cases from this market to all points. Fifty cars have been received from outlying points for warehouse handling during the week. No tobacco crop in recent years has been gathered up so quietly or so expeditiously as the present one after the buying fairly opened. Before this paper reaches its readers fully 80 per cent of the '07 crop will have passed out of the hands of the growers. The balance of the unsold portion lies largely in the hands of growers who have their crops eased and holding for higher prices or controlled by the Society of Equity, so the crop is about as evenly placed up as is usually the case when the buying season closes. And a much larger share of the crop than ever before passes into the hands of the big tobacco trust. They have not only secured their supply of Wisconsin leaf cheaper than ever before but the several subsidiary concerns have stocked up with more of it. Being able to throw a large force of buyers into the field just at the time when the growers were ready to let go of their holdings, the coup was accomplished easily. Whether the unsettled conditions in the southern tobacco districts and the high prices which the Equity pool has attempted to dictate has had anything to do with the movement here is not yet apparent, but the fact stands out undisputed that the American Tobacco Co. are the big owners of the Wisconsin product. Just what the aggregate amount of their purchases will reach is difficult to estimate at this time but when all reports are in it is believed the different branches of the trust will control close to half the crop.

RESIGNS CHARGE; SURPRISED MANY

REV. RICHARD MINOR VAUGHAN TELLS CHURCH OF HIS PLANS.

WILL TRAVEL IN THE WEST

Announcement Came to His Church Members at the Sunday Morning Service.

Reverend Richard Minor Vaughan, for the past seven years pastor of the Baptist church, yesterday morning announced to his congregation that he would resign his charge in this city to take effect the 15th of May, the anniversary of his coming to Janesville seven years ago, owing to poor health.

Was a Surprise.
The announcement came as a complete surprise to the majority of the church members who knew nothing of the pastor's plans beyond the fact he had asked for an extended leave of absence and that the matter had been discussed by the church council. It was with real sorrow that many of the prominent church members expressed their regret that Mr. Vaughan's health was such that he thought best to give up his work at this time.

Came From Detroit.
Mr. Vaughan came from the Warren Avenue Baptist church in Detroit to Janesville and during his pastorate has increased the membership some three hundred and thirty-six. He will not only be missed by his church members but by the public generally, as he has been prominently identified in the civic life of the city and a leading member of the Twilight Club.

Good West.
While Mr. Vaughan's plans are not yet definitely decided upon it is probable he will spend some time in the West, desiring much of the time to be in the open where a slater resides and in Colorado where other relatives live. Since an attack of the grippe during the winter Mr. Vaughan's health has not been of the best and he asked for an indefinite leave of absence to recuperate.

Then Resigned.
Afterwards reconsidering his plan of an indefinite leave, Mr. Vaughan thought it best to resign so that the church might not suffer during his enforced absence and his announcement Sunday morning was with this in view. In leaving Janesville Mr. Vaughan takes with him the best wishes of his many friends both in and out of his church and the hope that a summer in the open will bring him back to his accustomed health.

No other walk can be built without special permission being granted by the council.

REALLY FORTUNATE AS TO THE STORMS

Janesville Not Badly Damaged by Wind of Friday and Saturday—Rains in Profusion.

While throughout the southern states a storm of cyclonic proportions killed hundreds of persons, injured many more and destroyed whole towns on Friday and Saturday, Janesville escaped with a mild blow which broke some glass and in the rural districts blew down some farm structures and did other damage. It was not a dangerous storm. Reports from the weather bureau in Milwaukee this morning state that the storm felt in Wisconsin was the same one that is reported in the south but that we feel but a portion of the effects here. So slowly is the storm moving that Janesville may feel the effects for several days longer. Snow was reported in several cities in the north yesterday and the rain of today it is reported may turn into snow and a heavy frost is certain tomorrow morning. The weather report of the officials in Milwaukee announced that the aurora borealis was distinctly visible upon several occasions during the past month and on March 26th exceptionally bright.

OFFERS TO AID IN BUILDING BRIDGES

State Geological Survey Glad to Offer Their Experience in the Matter.

The state Geological survey, feeling that there has been a lack of skillful planning and supervision in the construction of the bridges of the state, resulting in a large number of poor weak bridges and bridges of excessive cost, offers to aid in the planning of bridges erected this year. The survey will, on request from the proper officials, send an engineer to inspect the bridge site, and determine on the span and the character of bridge and foundations. From this information plans and specifications will be prepared for a bridge of the proper character and strength, and an estimate of the proper cost furnished. The bridge can then be advertised and let with the assurance that a sound bridge will be erected at a reasonable cost. Plans furnished by bridge companies will be checked on request when there is not sufficient time to use the method outlined above.

All of this assistance is absolutely free to towns and villages and there seems to be no valid reason why bridge officials should not avail themselves of it.

The calls on the highway division are coming in daily, and if this community has any bridges to build this year it would be well for the town boards to apply immediately in order that the application may get on file in time for work this summer.

Oliver Goldsmith's "Deserted Village," spoke of a certain chapel where those who "went to school, remained to pray." So in life one often laughs at what he does not understand and later, when he does understand, his laugh turns to praise. There were some who doubted the merits of Newbro's "Horsehide," the scalp game and hair-dressing; but since they have tried it, they are now among its best friends and strongest endorsers. Horsehide kills the germ that eats the hair off at the root, and the hair then grows again. As a hair dressing it is incomparable, try it. Sold by leading druggists. GREAT EVENT IN CATHOLIC CHURCH

CELEBRATION OF ITS CENTENNIAL IN NEW YORK BEGUN.

ONE WEEK OF REJOICING

Cardinal Logue of Ireland a Prominent Guest—Archbishop Farley Denounces Materialistic Tendencies of the Age.

New York, Apr. 27.—Every Catholic church and the houses within the archdiocese of New York were in festal array Sunday, while perhaps a million men, women and children gave thanks for the progress Catholicism had made in New York since it was formally established a hundred years ago. It was the beginning of the week of rejoicing in honor of the completion of a century of activity.

The center of interest was St. Patrick's cathedral, where at 11 o'clock Monsignor Lavelle, the rector, was celebrant of a solemn mass of thanksgiving and the archbishop of New York preached a sermon. The edifice was decorated in the interior with the Papal colors, and outside and between its tapering towers the American flag was flung to the breeze. Every seat was filled and hundreds clamored for admission.

Irish Cardinal Present. Cardinal Logue of Ireland occupied the archbishop's throne and gave the blessing at the close. At the end of the first gospel, Archbishop Farley entered the pulpit and, in a few happy words, welcomed Cardinal Logue to this country. He then delivered a sermon in the course of which he reviewed the history of Catholicism in New York, spoke of the numerous patriots the church had given to the country, referred to the parochial school system and its influence on the morals of a community, then closed with a word on the tendency of the age.

"You all know, my brethren, as I know," he said, "that the tendency of the age is materialistic; that even some of our own brethren at times have not been proof against this materialistic tendency. Ah, is it not true to-day that money, even among men who profess to believe in Christianity, is the law? Is it not confirmed by the daily chronicle, sad and shameful as it is, that wealth turns to stone the hearts of fathers and mothers, and by crushing out Christian principles, tends to annihilate the love of children for parents and the love of parents for their offspring? This is the crying crime of the age."

Program of the Week. In the evening the archbishop gave a dinner in honor of the Irish cardinal. Monday night the Countess Leary will entertain both Cardinals Logue and Gibbons and all the other prelates who will have arrived here for the public festivities that begin Tuesday morning at the cathedral. Cardinal Gibbons and Monsignor, brother of Monsignor, will arrive here Monday. Monsignor Falcone came from Washington, bearing a special message for Archbishop Farley that will be made public Tuesday.

Arrangements have been completed for the procession on next Saturday afternoon, with which the ceremonies will close. His Grace, Thomas H. Barry will be the grand marshal. He is now in New York, having been relieved from duty in Cuba for the occasion. The archbishop of New York has received hundreds of letters of congratulation from ministers of various denominations and one from President Roosevelt.

Grant Peace Window Dedicated. New York, Apr. 27.—With simple ceremonies the Grant Peace Memorial window was formally dedicated Sunday at Metropolitan Temple in honor of Gen. Myones B. Grant's love of peace. The ceremonies were attended by representatives from various Grand Army posts and members of Gen. Grant's family.

MOUNTAIN BURIES VILLAGE

DE SALETTE, ONT., IS CRUSHED BY HUGE LANDSLIDE.

At Least Thirty of the French Hamlet's Population Known to Have Perished.

Buckingham, Ont., Apr. 27.—Half the little French hamlet of Notre Dame De Salette, 16 miles from here on the L'Espresso river, lies buried under a sliding mountain and at least 30 of its small population are known to have perished.

The hamlet has no telephone or telegraph and neither is it on a railroad. Meager bits of news of the disaster come in by messenger from the physicians and other rescuers who were hurried there when the first calls for aid came at early morning. The river L'Espresso winds at the foot of the hamlet and a mountain towers behind it. Spring rains for days past have been melting the snow and ice on the mountainside and streams have been pouring down to the river. At five o'clock in the morning, just as the little hamlet began to stir for early mass, part of the mountain started to slide toward the river. It tore a path of death and destruction.

Camille in Pointe's house stood first in the path of the avalanche. He and his family of 11 are known to have perished. Eight others whose names have not been obtained are known to be missing and in the panic the rescuers are attempting to find definitely how many more are missing. Mrs. Desjardins' cottage also was swept away and she, with her two children, a domestic and a hired man were buried in the landslide.

De Salette, like many hamlets of its kind, rambles into gardens and little fields on the mountainside, so about half of it was not in the path of the avalanche. The sliding mass rushed with a roar and spread fan-like over part of the place and dumped itself in the swollen stream at its foot.

Messengers were dispatched to Pampere, the nearest hamlet. Those who arrived first estimated that at least a dozen houses were crushed in the path of the landslide. Buckingham was appealed to, but the flight of the messengers across the spring roads was slow. Those first on the scene found De Salette in a panic with the unhurried ones packing their belongings for flight.

The first messengers to Buckingham ordered 25 coffins to be sent to De Salette and all the physicians of the town were hurried across country with rescue parties.

BLIZZARD IN GREAT BRITAIN.

Deep Snow and Violent Gales in the United Kingdom.

London, Apr. 27.—A remarkable blizzard, the worst experienced in the south of England since 1881, continued practically all over the United Kingdom throughout Friday night and Saturday, until Saturday midnight. It was accompanied by a violent northerly gale and a low temperature, and in many places the snow drifts are eight feet deep. Railway traffic has been seriously delayed and telegraph and telephone systems are completely disorganized. Tramway cars and motor cars have been snowed up in every section of the country. Many of the outlying districts are isolated and some deaths from exposure are reported. Enormous damage has been done, especially to the young fruit crops.

London, where much snow has fallen during the past week, was bathed in sunshine Sunday, but it is still very cold.

MERCURY FOR TUBERCULOSIS.

Results of Treatment at Naval Hospital Are Encouraging.

Washington, Apr. 27.—A preliminary report on the treatment of tuberculosis by the administration of mercury has been made to the surgeon general by Surgeon B. L. Wright of the navy, who has been conducting investigations at the naval hospital at Fort Lyon, Col. In forwarding and commenting on this report, Medical Inspector C. T. Hildreth says the subject is engaging much attention by officers on duty at the hospital and the treatment is being applied personally by Surgeons W. H. Tucker and Wright, in order that there may be no danger of infection by the needle to discourage the patients. The clinic, it is said, is steadily growing by voluntary applications for treatment and the results so far are encouraging.

TORNADO VICTIMS NOW NUMBER 350

DEATH LIST IN THE SOUTH HAS GROWN RAPIDLY.

BADLY INJURED ARE 1,200

Serious Wreckage Reported from Forty-Six Towns—Storm Moved in Three Currents—Relief for Sufferers.

New Orleans, Apr. 27.—The totals of death, misery and ruin caused in four southern states by Friday's tornadoes have come to hand in approximately correct form. Briefly stated they are: Killed, about 350; injured, painfully or seriously, 1,200; homeless, several thousand. Towns reporting serious wreckage, 46; habitations and business houses practically complete ruins in these towns, about 2,500.

The above figures do not include the wreckage on plantations and farms, scores of which were struck and damaged.

The number of dead may never be known accurately for the reason that about 300 of them were negroes and they were buried in many communities without careful records being made of their numbers.

Course of the Tornadoes.

By following the wreckage of towns the general direction of the tornadoes can be traced closely. Apparently the storm struck in three separate currents, each describing the arc of a circle and traveling toward the northeast. The first of these struck through northern Louisiana, Mississippi and Tennessee before daylight Friday morning. The second appeared further south about seven o'clock in Louisiana and Mississippi. The third portion of the storm appeared Friday afternoon, further south than either of its predecessors. This was the storm which demolished Amite, La., and Purvis, Miss., the towns in which the wreckage was worst.

Why the fatalities were so unusual in large is apparent from a glance at the photographs which have arrived here from many portions of the tornado belt. They all tell the same story. Whole blocks of what were formerly little residences and cabins lie spread over the ground in ruins. Under this mass of wreckage many hundreds of persons were buried, not one in a hundred escaping without some injury. The houses which were thus scattered about were mostly negro habitations.

Queer Experiences Related.

Along with the accounts of suffering have come many recitals of remarkable experiences of which the following is typical.

At Amite, La., when the tornado appeared there were seven persons at the dinner table of Hamilton Warner's home, including three children. One of the diners, Claude Bennett, saw the whirling cloud in time to shout warning, and rushed out doors, but the others remained in the dining room. The wind tore off two doors on opposite sides of the room and an astonishing procession of live and inanimate objects began to pass into the room through these doorways. First came a calf running before the wind. The animal jumped over the dining table and went out the opposite door. Afterward came a horse which followed through the exit taken by the calf. The three children sought refuge under the table and no one was injured.

Sunday was a day of relief measures throughout the wrecked district. The ruined towns have been visited by thousands of spectators, many of whom went with a few dollars in their pockets to distribute among the needy. Sheds made from the wreckage have become the homes of hundreds. Small parties of men on horseback have gone through country districts taking inventories of the assistance needed and rendering aid where it was most necessary. At least a dozen funds have been started in as many cities and towns.

Another Tornado Reported.

Mobile, Ala., Apr. 27.—A special from Meridian, Miss., says that a disastrous tornado passed through a sparsely settled section of east Mississippi south of that city late Sunday. Meridian also was visited by a remarkable wind, rain and hail storm, much damage being done to crops and shrubbery. Reports from Cahoonville say the main tornado passed seven miles below that place. Timber properties are reported almost devastated.

Two Old Washingtonians Die.

Washington, Apr. 27.—John Edward Libbey, president, and Charles B. Church, vice-president, respectively of the Oldest Inhabitants' association of the District of Columbia, died here Sunday. Mr. Libbey was born in this city November 22, 1837, and Mr. Church at Jefferson, Frederick county, Maryland, September 11, 1826. Both men had long been identified with the lumber business.

Joliet Has a $210,000 Fire.

Joliet, Ill., Apr. 27.—Fire Sunday destroyed the Boston store and damaged the Hammond building, adjoining. The loss on the Boston store is $50,000, and on contents $100,000. The roof and the third floor of the Hammond building burned, the loss being $25,000.

Lightning Kills Father and Son.

Huntington, W. Va., Apr. 27.—Robert Harrison and his six-year-old son, Thomas, were killed by lightning at their home in this county Sunday.

The Tailor Who Paid Too Much

By Herbert Kaufman.

I was buying a cigar last week when a man dropped into the shop and after making a purchase told the proprietor that he had started a clothes shop around the corner and quoted him prices, with the assurance of best garments and terms.

After he left the cigar man turned to me and said:

"Enterprising fellow, that, he'll get along."

"But he won't," I replied, "and, furthermore, I'll wager you that he hasn't the sort of clothes shop that will enable him to."

"What, made you think that?" queried the man behind the counter.

"His ideas are wrong," I explained; "he's relying upon word of mouth publicity to build up his business and he can't interview enough individuals to compete with a merchant who has sense enough to say the same things he told you to several thousand men while he is telling it to one. Besides, his method of advertising is too expensive. Suppose he sees a hundred persons every day. First of all he is robbing his business of its necessary direction and besides he is spending too much to reach every man he solicits."

"What makes you say that?"

"Well, as the proprietor of a clothes shop his own time is so valuable that I am very conservative in my estimate when I put the cost of his soliciting at five cents a head.

"Now, if he were really able and clever he would discover that he can talk to hundreds of people at 1-3 of a cent per individual and that the Gazette reaches 30,000 people each day."

"I never looked at it that way," said the cigarman.

It's only "the man who hasn't looked at it that way" who hesitates for an instant over the advisability and profitableness of newspaper publicity.

Newspaper advertising is the cheapest channel of communication ever established by man. A thousand letters with one-cent stamps will easily cost fifteen dollars and not one envelope in ten will be opened because the very postage is an invitation to the wastebasket.

If there were anything cheaper rest assured that the greatest merchants in America would not spend individual sums ranging up to half a million dollars a year and over in this form of attracting trade.

Costly Monotony in Dress. Our clothes are all alike, and this monotony has led to unlimited extravagance. What has not been done to make the eternal pinafore frock look original? New elaborations are invented daily, each one more expensive than the last, but nobody is deceived. It is still the old pinafore, only a little madder, a little deader, every day.—London Graphic.

To Utilize Sugar. If the sugar planters of the West Indies are wise they will pay more attention to fruit as a concomitant product with cane, and devote some of their idle acres to its cultivation, and also to the establishing of fruit-canning factories, the results of which have proven so profitable in the northern islands.

TALL TIMBER THINNING OUT

"As a result largely of the rise in the level of the moral sentiment, in corporate, business and public relations," says the Wall Street Journal, "there has been a remarkable thinning out of tall timber in the forest of prominent characters in this community."

"One can easily count a score or more of the names of men who stood in the first rank of public attention when the Armstrong committee began its work with the first public hearing Sept. 6, 1905. Meanwhile there has been a vast amount of investigation, legislation and litigation. The public attitude toward business responsibility has become more critical and the measure of public control over corporate enterprise has been materially enlarged. As a part of this transformation many of the older personages who had made careers for themselves have practically disappeared from the field. The change has made room for younger growths and the end of displacement is not yet."

"To follow the analogy of the forest, when the monarchs of ancient growth lose their footing by decay or are blown down by storms, they leave a large place in the timber district into which the sunlight pours its nutritive powers for the stimulation of the younger timber which the giants of the woods have long overshadowed. This is what has been taking place in the management of large financial, commercial and industrial institutions. Within a couple of years or so, an old order of things has passed away, and with it a new era of more critical standards of business integrity has begun. More light has been let in from the top. It has called for a type of leadership which is more responsive to the demands of the age for cleaner business methods."

"It is enough to say that this public demand will get what it wants, although it may have to wait somewhat for all that it desires. Most of the tall timber has reached its growth. What is left may still flourish but only on condition that it is adaptive enough to adjust itself to the vitalizing requirements of the new moral sense which occupies the throne. The failure to foresee this means gradual death at the top, the loss of a grip on the roots of affairs, and the gradual dwindling of almost regal power. On the contrary, the capacity to pre-empt the newer standards of public and business life is the guarantee of permanency to whomsoever is given the gift of realizing the signs of the times. Rarely has there been a time when more large places were opening for types of men of large possibilities in them than today."

The "thinning out" process, so vividly described by the Journal, would not be so great a loss, but for the fact that the "cyclone" which swept over the business world, left in its wake more than the wreckage of "tall timber."

It demolished fortunes and shattered enterprises which had not attained the magnitude of national prominence, and the disaster was so widespread that capital hesitates to step in and attempt to restore normal conditions.

The storm has cleared the atmosphere, but its effects will be felt for months to come. Young timber does not mature in a night.

The Pennsylvania Central railroad recently sold $40,000,000 worth of new bonds, and the money will be used to complete the New York tunnel and terminals. This large issue of bonds is the first of importance since the panic, and while other roads have planned for heavy investments in betterments, they will wait for cheaper prices and lower wages, before attempting to go ahead. Business conditions are yet far from normal.

The city of San Francisco has invested $100,000,000 in the work of rebuilding, during the past two years. Insurance money has gone back into building and business enterprises, but outside capital has been slow to invest. The people of the stricken city have displayed remarkable courage and confidence and are entitled to much credit. If nature is kind, the new San Francisco will in time surpass the old.

The city of Haverhill, Mass., with a population of 130,000, went dry Saturday and 136 saloons are out of business. The law and order movement is spreading rapidly, and if saloons are out of business, the law and order movement, now protected by license, are wise, they will recognize the necessity of observing regulative laws to the letter. Public sentiment is thoroughly aroused.

The ways and means committee of the house do not take kindly to the suggestion of a tariff commission. Efforts along this line are regarded as interference. The chances are that no commission will be appointed, and that nothing will be done except to appoint a congressional committee for the purpose of delay.

At the annual meeting of the Associated Press, held last week in New York, 774 daily papers were represented. The opinion was unanimous that the president should urge congress to take immediate action on the paper combine, which is held responsible for the heavy advance in the price of paper.

Oshkosh people have been victimized by a goldbrick scheme to the extent of several thousand dollars. They invested in Amalgamated copper and discovered that Tom Lawson was better at tearing down the "System" than in promoting something better. The Standard Oil Co. is still doing business at the old stand.

The world's daily output of gold is one million dollars, yet the claim is made that a dollar is invested for every dollar secured. If some political economist will devise a plan to save the dollar the mines might rest indefinitely.

The first cyclone of the season left a trail of death and destruction in the southern states. The storm was predicted by Rev. Hiles, the weather prophet, and barometers in all parts of the country displayed danger signals.

Speaker Cannon made a mistake in trifling with the press on the wood pulp tariff issue, and he begins to realize that the newspaper is a hard and persistent talker.

Type and type metal has declined 50 per cent as a result of the slump in copper six months ago.

BEACH'S MENTALITY QUESTION FOR JURY

Examination of the Spring Valley Recluse Was Commenced in Judge Recluse's Court at 11 a. m. Today.

Before a jury composed of L. L. Fletcher, L. C. Brewer, Robert Clark, C. B. Conrad, Robert Hockett, and W. H. Taylor, in Judge Recluse's court this morning, was commenced the examination to determine the mental condition of Alexander Beach, the Spring Valley farmer who was taken into custody by Sheriff Fisher last Wednesday. Attorney Burr Sprague of Brookhead, administrator of the estate left by Beach's mother, represents the affirmative side of the inquiry and Atty. Arthur M. Fisher is counsel for Beach. Solitaires of the man whose sanity is questioned were present in force and many of them, when called upon, testified against him.

Dr. J. P. Pomeroy and Dr. T. W. Nazum who examined Beach at the county jail, both testified as expert witnesses and each gave it as his opinion that the man is mentally unbalanced. They based their opinion on his abnormal method of living as a recluse, his seemingly erratic judgment with regard to taking care of his farm property; his inability to get along with his neighbors and constant suspicion that they were trying to get the better of him; and a hallucination which he appears to cherish that a life short-livedness on his part several years ago prevented a general victory for the national prohibition movement. Dr. Nazum had known him 20 years and discerned a marked change in the man since he was active as a successful veterinary surgeon. On the other hand, both agreed that his memory was good and that with the exception of striking his mother once he never seemed to have hurt anyone. They admitted that the fire which partially destroyed the interior of his home a week ago yesterday and which he fought, unaided might have had its origin in natural causes.

J. H. Oliver of Brookhead who has property near the Beach farm stated that he was trying unsuccessfully to buy some corn and cattle from the man about the 1st of December, the latter made some reference to his plan of fishing out a revolver from the well. When Mr. Oliver suggested that a revolver wasn't worth the trouble and asked what he wanted of it, any way, Beach said that he wanted "to have it ready for those fellows when come round."

Owing to the fact that he had not filed his certificate as a practicing veterinary with the county clerk, Attorney Fisher objected to any testimony from Dr. H. B. Anderson of Orfordville as an expert witness. The objection was temporarily sustained pending an investigation of the law.

After Effects of the Grip.

Dr. Clouston of Edinburgh said it seemed as if no disease of whose effects there was any correct record had such far-reaching evil effects as this one, and among its sequelae he enumerated a depressing influence on the whole nervous energy, melancholia, neurasthenic conditions, premature senility, various forms of paralysis, neuritic affections and a general incapacity for work.

Forbearance.

Endeavor to be patient in bearing with the defects and infirmities of others, of what sort soever they be; for that they also have many failings which must be borne with by others. If thou canst not make thyself such an one as thou wouldst, how canst thou expect to have another in all things to thy liking?—Thomas a Kempis.

That you have often met people who had such a small number of teeth as to cause astonishment.

This indicates just what many people are doing today.

Falling to care for their teeth at the proper time.

Little unnoticed decay grows larger just as sure as they are there. Just such cavities, I tell you, at a price that doesn't cause regret for having it done, and it will please you to know that your teeth are sound.

JANESVILLE BOY MUCH HONORED

REVEREND E. J. MCCARTHY BECOMES CHANCELLOR OF ARCHDIOCESE.

CHOSEN FOR HIS ABILITY

Archbishop Messmer Appoints Him to This Important Position—Will Live with the Archbishop.

Reverend E. J. McCarthy, a Janesville boy, has just received the important appointment as Chancellor of the Archdiocese of Milwaukee. The appointment carries with it much responsibility, Father McCarthy having been charged with the financial affairs of the Archdiocese and other important duties to perform. He will make his residence with Archbishop Messmer in Milwaukee. His appointment is an honor which comes as a result of his labors both at Westport and Evansville, in both of which places he did excellent service.

Father McCarthy was born in Janesville about 36 years ago. He attended the Catholic public schools. Later on he went to Milwaukee to prepare for the priesthood. He spent five years at St. Francis seminary. From there he went to St. Paul seminary, studying philosophy and theology under the able professors, Drs. Judge, Turner and Shields. He was ordained to the priesthood at St. Francis seminary June 16, 1901, by Archbishop Keltz. His first charge was as assistant to Father R. J. Roche of Milwaukee. From there he was sent to Westport in Dane county. In this parish he did good work. After paying off the heavy debt which was on this property, Archbishop Messmer sent him to the Catholic university at Washington, D. C. At this institution he spent two years studying pedagogy, sociology and philosophy.

On returning to Milwaukee he was sent to organize the new congregation at Evansville, Wis. Here he built a new church and parsonage. When the people of Beloit asked for another church, the archbishop intended to send Father McCarthy to Beloit to organize the new parish, to build a church school and parsonage. Archbishop Messmer, recognizing Father McCarthy's burning and ability, requested him to come to Milwaukee and assist him with the many onerous duties which devolve upon him as head of the diocese. Father McCarthy's many friends in Janesville and elsewhere will be gratified to hear of his appointment and promotion, a promotion which he deserves and one which he will creditably fulfill. He now holds the third highest office in the archdiocese.

BROWN TOOK OATH AND FILED A BOND

As City Marshal But Expects to Serve as a Patrolman Until the Courts Have Decided.

At four o'clock Saturday afternoon Officer John Brown took steps to qualify as City Marshal, collect by the common council of Janesville. City Clerk Hedges administered the oath and bonds in the sum of $500, signed by L. P. Connors and Daniel Bryant, were filed. The new council will pass upon these bonds this evening. Meanwhile Officer Brown has made no effort to assume the duties of the head of the police department and will probably not do so, even after his bonds are approved—if the council decides to accept them. It is believed that through his attorney he will shortly begin an action to oust City Marshal George Appleby, the present incumbent, but that until the courts have decided, he will continue to act as patrolman. The council will scarcely find it advisable to pay Officer Brown for services which he makes no effort to perform, and the litigation seems likely, therefore, to be of a character which will concern only the two parties directly interested.

ACTION AGAINST HERMAN TOPP WAS DISMISSED TODAY

Trial of Fritz Batan Was Set For Thursday—John Sullivan Released on His Signing Pledge—Other Court News.

Judge Field had not returned from Chicago this morning and Justice of the Peace Charles Lange was called in to preside at the session of municipal court this morning. Fritz Batan, the Pole who was captured by Officer Morris while trying to break into J. L. Spellman's cigar store, waived examination and his trial was set for Saturday morning at 10 o'clock. Bail was fixed at $300 and as he was unable to furnish this, he was remanded to the county jail.

Sullivan Took Pledge. John Sullivan, charged with assault and battery on his small son, William, told the court that the boy was away and he merely "corrected him" as he supposed he, as a father, had a right to do. District Attorney Fisher said that, basely drunk among men and the habit of going home and making life unendurable for the family were getting to be too common and a sixty day sentence for one of the offenders might be a good example for the community. Sullivan finally agreed to sign the pledge for one year on condition that his case be adjourned 90 days and upon holding up his right hand and signing an iron-clad agreement to abstain from drink, was released.

Punished for Drunkenness. Staving drunk, carrying a quart bottle of whiskey in one hand and leading his little three year old daughter by the other, Mike Holman was arrested on Main street yesterday. The child screamed and could not be comforted when the officers took her father to the lockup. Holman pleaded guilty to a drunkenness charge this morning and paid a fine and costs amounting to $2.10. William Gavney paid $3.10 for the same offense.

Topp Case Dismissed. When the case against Herman Topp, brought on the charge of giving a worthless check for $53 to Richard Stark of the town of Center in exchange for two cattle was called this afternoon, the complainant's attorney evinced a disinclination to press the prosecution. It had been learned that Topp had from time to time had good sized deposits in the bank of Evansville and had been given some leeway in drawing checks. It could not be shown that there were no funds at the time the check was drawn, as it was not presented for payment until a week later. On recommendation of the District Attorney the case was therefore dismissed.

GREAT EVENING FOR CITY DADS

OLD AND NEW AWAIT WITH ANTICIPATIONS WHETTED.

A CARNIVAL OF BALLOTING

Which Will Probably Last Until About Midnight—Several Candidates for Most of Offices.

Tonight the new common council will meet for organization and for the transaction of such general business as may demand its attention. The wards will be represented in the circle during the coming year by the following aldermen: (1) J. W. Clark and William F. Currier; (2) G. O. Buchholz and J. D. O'Hara; (3) H. W. Brown and W. W. Watt; (4) J. J. Sheridan and W. C. Rehfeld; (5) J. J. Dullin and G. W. Richardson. Mayor Stewart H. Hedrick has announced his appointments of standing committees for the year, the council will proceed to elect its President to succeed J. J. Dullin. The oldest member who has not been honored with this office is Ald. J. J. Sheridan.

Sharp Contest for Offices. That there will be plenty of excitement when the balloting for the various candidates for office begins, seems evident. There are at least four men who want to be street commissioner and an equal number who are in the race for the health commissioner. If past precedents are observed votes will be cast for nearly every office thirty or forty times before a decision is reached and the session will last till near midnight.

For Street Commissioner. James Bennett, who has made a conscientious, industrious, and efficient street commissioner, will be a candidate for reelection and will be opposed by L. D. Watson, Peter Dullin—a brother of the alderman, and a Mr. O'Donnell from the Fourth ward will contest with him for the place. In this contest every ward in the city except the First will be represented. Mr. Bennett being from the Third, Mr. Watson from the Second, and Mr. Dullin from the Fifth.

Health Officer. Dr. W. D. Merritt is a candidate to succeed himself as Health Commissioner. Other candidates whose names are mentioned are: Dr. S. B. Buckmaster, Dr. G. C. Waulke, and Dr. W. A. Munn.

Assessors. The assessors who served the city during the past year and the ward they represented were as follows: David Conner (1); Herl L. Gager (2); Charles Conner (3); C. K. Midmore (4); and James Clough (5). All of these men will probably be candidates for reelection and the only rumor of a possible contest comes from the Third ward which may possibly enter Frank L. Smith as a candidate against Mr. Conner.

Other Officers. C. V. Kerch will undoubtedly be re-elected as city engineer and James Gillespie will probably have no opposition as a candidate for a second term as janitor of the city hall. There will probably be no very heated contest over the member chosen to sit in the councils of the Janesville Park & Pleasure Drive association.

The Salary List. The salary list will probably be passed at this time and City Marshal Appleby's recommendation will be studiously overlooked. The bonds and oath of John Brown will undoubtedly be accepted.

Blind Students' Dance: Ninety pupils of the Blind Institute enjoyed a social and dance at the large gymnasium Saturday evening. Gray & Carter's orchestra of eight pieces furnished the inspiration.
In Honor of Miss Bladen: At her home on North Jackson street, Saturday afternoon, Miss Irma Zieckler entertained a company of young ladies in honor of Miss Edna Bladen, who is soon to depart with her parents for a lengthy tour of Europe.

All the officers and directors of the Janesville Park and Pleasure Drive Association were cordially invited to attend the banquet to be given on this evening by the Madison association. Parker, Stewart H. Hedrick, Allen P. Lovejoy, Malcolm O. Mount, Harry H. Bliss, and John J. Sheridan, directors.

A Certificate of Deposit is the only form of investment by which money may be always at the investor's call and on which he may still collect interest for four or five months.

Very often it will occur that a deposit which is made in the savings department for six months is withdrawn at the end of four or five months for investment. In such a case with one of our certificates two per cent interest is paid for the time the deposit has been with us.

You should consider this if you have idle money awaiting investment.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Jan. 27, 1908. The early snow wheat is already up and shows finely on the ground. The sowing is about completed, though something is still doing in that line.

Serious Accident—Yesterday afternoon a young man by the name of C. W. Rosenzweig met with a serious accident in the switch yards of the C. & N. W. railway. The employees of the road were at work switching, when the young man who was not employed on the road, took a position at the switch, and in the process of switching, he fell on the track and a wheel passed over his left leg, crushing it badly.

At last accounts amputation had not been resorted to, and was understood that a effort is to be made to save the leg. The young man's parents reside in Brooklyn.

Washington, April 27.—The Senate court opened this noon. The pending question was stated to be the order of Senator Edmunds that official reporters be admitted to secret session to take debate on the final question to be reported with the proceedings. After several amendments were offered and voted down discussion of the subject was postponed until after the argument was concluded. The Chief Justice directed that the argument proceed, and at 12:30 Stevens nominated the clerks desk and read his argument in a pretty firm voice from printed slips. After about ten minutes he took the chair and continued reading sitting. At fifteen minutes before one his voice showed signs of weakness and Butler read the remainder of the argument.

Mr. Sturges's health is rapidly improving. He yesterday dictated several thousand words of his closing argument for the President, and it is now supposed that he may be well enough on Wednesday or Thursday to read the last portion of it.

NEW OFFICE BUILDING TO TAKE THE PLACE OF FIFTH AVENUE HOTEL.

New York City, April 21.—With the closing of the Fifth Avenue hotel came the plans for constructing on its site one of the city's finest structures. Contrary to popular belief, this will be devoted entirely to offices and with the exception of the Metropolitan Life building will be the largest single structure in the city. It will cover an area of 55,000 square feet and will be erected to a height of 14 stories. The floor plan at the street level shows two arcades, each 23 feet wide, one running from Twenty-third to Twenty-fourth street and the other leading in from the middle of the Fifth Avenue and Broadway frontage. The two will meet in a large rotunda at the center of the structure. These arcades will extend up through the first two stories to a height of 20 feet and will doubtless become a much-used avenue of travel, particularly among those who will be glad to avoid the Fifth Avenue and Twenty-third street corner with its many varying shafts of wind. The exterior of the building will be finished with stone and the base of polished granite. The arcades will be lined with white marble, with pilasters of Siena marble. The building's transportation will consist of 19 high-speed elevators.

A new record in speed construction is anticipated. No efforts will be made to get much out of the salvage of the old Fifth Avenue hotel, for in the construction of a building which involves millions of dollars the time lost would more than counteract the salvage. In all probability the material of the old building will be loaded on scows and towed out to sea and dumped.

Be Polite. Every lovely, kindly grace is worth cultivating and will add much to your happiness and usefulness when you are older. A rude, ill-mannered person is shunned and disliked in every circle, and unless the opposite habits are formed in early life they are seldom formed at all.

The Handy Home Circle. "They have gone to some trouble to locate a wild man of the woods near here," says the Milwaukee Banner, "but why they should go to the woods to locate 'em is what puzzles us, considering that the home supply is more than equal to the demand!"—Atlanta Constitution.

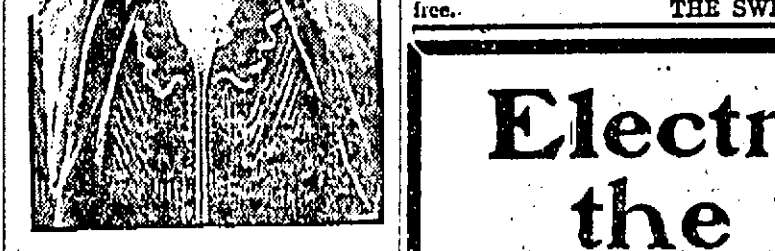

Longest Year on Record. The year 47 B. C. was the longest year on record. By order of Julius Caesar, it contained 445 days. The additional days were put in to make the seasons conform as nearly as possible with the solar year.

RHEUMATISM

BLOOD FILLED WITH URIC ACID

Rheumatism comes from an excess of uric acid in the blood. This acid circulating through the system acts as an irritant to the different muscles, nerves, bones and tissues of the body, and produces the inflammation and swelling of the joints and the sharp, cutting pains characteristic of the disease. When the blood is overburdened with uric acid it continually grows weaker and more acid, and poorer in nourishing qualities. Then Rheumatism becomes chronic, and not only a painful, but a formidable and dangerous disease. Sometimes the heart is attacked, the general health is affected, and the oils and fluids which lubricate the muscles and joints are destroyed by the acid matter which the blood is constantly depositing in them; the muscles shrink and lose their elasticity, the coating of the joints becomes hard and thick, and often the sufferer is left a hopeless cripple. S. S. S. attacks the disease at its head, goes down into the circulation, and by neutralizing and removing the uric acid from the circulation and building up the thin, acid blood, cures Rheumatism permanently. S. S. S. changes the sour, acid-burdened blood to a rich, healthy stream which quiets the excited nerves, eases the throbbing, painful muscles and joints, and filters out of the system the irritating matter which is causing the pain and inflammation. Begin the use of S. S. S. now and get the cause out of your blood so that the cold and dampness of Winter will not keep you in constant pain and misery. RICH WOMAN JOINS VOLUNTEERS OF AMERICA.

Des Moines, Iowa, April 25.—Giving up elegant home, jewels, comforts and luxuries, Mrs. L. C. Lemon has left her home in St. Louis and come to Des Moines to work among the poor and lowly as a member of the Volunteers of America.

A few weeks ago an aristocratic woman took a suite of apartments at the Chamberlain hotel, the aristocratic hostelry of the city. She remained there a week, and during that time, it was afterwards learned, studied the workings of the Volunteers, and the surprise of those who saw her when she next appeared in a silk gown stepped from the curb and joined their ranks, announcing that henceforth she would devote her life to the uplifting of humanity. Mrs. Lemon gave up her quarters at the hotel and moved to the Volunteers' home. She returned to St. Louis, arranged her affairs there and then came back to Des Moines. She says she wants to do good in the world and has grasped at this as her opportunity for so doing. She has put aside her silks and satins and appears each day on the street in the simple garb of the Volunteers.

LICUTENANT SHERIDAN, THE MAN WHO NEVER FORGETS A CRIMINAL—A TYPICAL DISGUISE WHICH WOULD Baffle MOST DETECTIVES.

New York.—Would you ever think that the two men pictured below are one and the same? Only years of experience and study could enable one to detect the similarity of this famous crook's two pictures. On the left is shown Gilman as he appeared under the name of Mitchell Cohen and on the right is shown Gilman's picture as he is in life. Lieutenant Sheridan is the most remarkable man in the world for remembering faces and placing them. When seen at his desk working away he could hardly believe this man was the greatest criminal in the world. When asked how he accounted for it, he said: "I do not know how this power came to me. Only know that I always have recognized the man or criminal I have once noticed professionally."

Of all the valuable men on the police force of New York, Lieutenant Sheridan is undoubtedly the most important when it comes to identifying crooks. He is middle aged, broad shouldered and deep of chest.

While talking with him the detective brought in a man for identification. Sheridan glanced up at him quickly and without further comment turned away. "The man, as I saw him, had a full beard and was dressed in the clothes of a well-to-do citizen," the detective asked. Sheridan if he knew this man and without the least hesitation he replied: "Yes, that is Frank Pollard, alias Manning, who was arrested in St. Louis five years ago for counterfeiting." This afterwards turned out to be correct and the man is now up for trial and will undoubtedly be serving time at Sing Sing shortly.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT AND SECRETARY LOEB.

This striking picture of the president and his secretary shows two of the most strenuous workers in Washington. Secretary Loeb has made a reputation for himself as secretary of President Roosevelt and has been offered many flattering positions by corporations. However, he steadfastly insists that he will not leave Roosevelt until the latter leaves the White House. Mr. Loeb and the president are personal friends and work together like clockwork. Both are fond of hunting and outdoor exercise and are full of life and vigor.

THE CAPTAIN OF the KANSAS

By LOUIS TRACY.
Author of "The Winds of the Morning," "The Pillar of Light," Etc.
COPYRIGHT, 1906, BY EDWARD J. CLODE

Courtney glanced sharply at his fellow countryman. He disliked these references to the Alcoholic boy in Elsie's presence.

"We have dynamite aboard," said Tullamache. "Why not construct a couple of infernal machines which could be fired by pulling a string and let them drift toward the canoe when the Indians are near enough?"

"It is worth trying," was Courtney's brief comment, though he saw later that Tullamache's suggestion was a very useful one.

Elsie's first task was to prepare a large scale drawing of the southern part of Hanover Island as set forth in admiralty chart No. 1837 (sheet 2, Patagonia), which is the only trustworthy record available for shipmasters using the outer passage between the Gulf of Panama and the Strait of Magellan. It was a simple matter to fill in the few contours given. The neighboring small islands were shown in reasonable detail, but the whole western coast of Hanover Island itself consisted of a dotted line and a solitary peak, Stokes mountain, the height of which could be estimated and its position triangulated from the sea. Beyond Concepcion Strait, on the north, and the San Blas channel, on the south, were marked in those significant dotted lines. The coast was practically unknown to civilized man.

It was some time on the girl while she worked that the chief marvel in her present condition was the triumph of science over nature in its most hostile mood. The Kansas boasted all the comforts and luxuries of a well equipped hotel. Seated at the same table as herself was a skillful sailor, using logarithms, sextants and compasses, polar distances and hour angles as if he were in some university class room.

She stole a glance at Courtney. He was so keenly engaged on the business in hand, so bent on achieving accuracy in his figures, that she chided herself for her reverie. Then she wondered if he ever gave a thought to that promised wife of his, who must soon suffer the agony of knowing that the Kansas was overdue.

Elsie was sufficiently well acquainted with shipping to realize the sensation that would be created by the first cablegram from Courtney, announcing the non-appearance of the steamer in the strait. The Valparaiso newspapers would be full of surmises as to the vessel's fate. They would publish full details of the valuable cargo and would give a list of the passengers and officers. All Ventura would learn then, if he had not heard it earlier, that she was on board. And he alone would understand the true reason of her flight from Chile. Her cheeks flushed, and she applied herself more closely to the chart she was copying. She had left a good deal unaided in her brief statement that morning. How strange, how utterly unexpected, it was that Ventura's name should fall from Courtney's lips—Courtney of all men living! And what did Isabel mean during that last dreadful scene or she was carried away to the boat by screaming in her frenzy that Ventura had taken "an ample vengeance" for her? Had the half breed dared to make the same promise to the rich and highly placed Isabel Harring that he did not scruple to put before the needy governess? Surely that was impossible. There were limits even to his audacity.

"Well, how is my chief hydrographer progressing?"

Courtney's cheery voice banished the unwelcome specter of Ventura. Elsie started.

"I do believe you were day dreaming," said the captain, with a surprised smile. "A penny for your thoughts."

"I don't think you can pay me," she retorted, hoping to cover her confusion. "You'll not accept Chilean currency?"

"Not on the high seas."

"But you are on dry land. Please make a dot on your map at 51 degrees 14 minutes 9 seconds south and 74 degrees 59 minutes 3 seconds west. That is the present position of the ship. Let me pin this compass card on the table. Use the parallel ruler, regard each inch as a mile, and I'll do the rest by guesswork."

Courtney took his binoculars and went on to the bridge. He called out the apparent distance of each landmark he could distinguish, described it and gave its true bearing. In the result Elsie found she had prepared a clear and fairly accurate chart of the bay and its headlands, while the position of the distant range of mountains was marked with tolerable precision. But Courtney was far from being satisfied.

"If I had a base line or even a fresh set of points taken higher up the inlet I could improve on my part of the survey," he said. "You're admirable, Miss Maxwell. Of course I know you are an artist, but mapping is a thing apart. That is that rate."

"Perhaps you may be able to secure fresh data when the Kansas puts to sea again," said Christobel.

"If I am coming the wheel I must leave the chartmaking entirely to my assistant," replied the captain lightly.

Elsie's first task was to prepare a large scale drawing.

"But I do mean to peep a little farther into our estuary. Before the ship sails I may have another spare hour to devote to it."

"In what way?" asked Elsie.

"By utilizing the canoe. A mile or so higher up the channel I should be clear of the bluff which hides Otter creek. I imagine it will be possible then to see the full extent of the bay. I must get you to some distance as to the lay of the land."

"I hope you will do nothing of the sort," protested Elsie earnestly. "Why? Do you think the canoe unsafe?"

"No, no; not that. But those waiting Indians. They might see you."

"Oh, the Indians! I shall run no risk of that sort. It would indeed be the irony of fate if the Kansas slipped her cable and left the skipper behind."

"Huh—no fear! She'd follow you like Joey. I was telling Miss Maxwell what a lucky fellow you are. Besides, if you want I'll be in command, and you know what would happen then. If all else failed, the blooded tub would turn turtle in the pool."

To emphasize his remarks Boyle blew a big smoke ring and shot several smaller rings through it.

Elsie felt Christobel's critical eye on her. She was studying the outlines of the map and trusted that her head was bent sufficiently to hide the telltale color which leaped to her face. But Courtney wished to hear more of this.

"I hope you do not credit everything my chief officer says about me," he said, glancing over his shoulder at the drawing, "nor about himself," he added, as she was too busy to look up. "To my knowledge he has refused the command of two ships since we both joined the Kansas."

"Home orders?" cried Boyle, who was certainly beyond himself. Probably he missed his regular rank, exclaiming owing to lack of a crew. "My untimely says to me: 'You just stick to Captain Courtney, young fellow—mind! He's one of the get-rich-quick sort. Praps you'll learn from him how to dodge board of trade inquiries.' You stand on what I told you, Miss Maxwell. You remember—commadore? Huh!"

Courtney glanced at the chronometer.

"I must be off," he announced. "Tullamache may need some help with his bombs, and those Chileans require looking after."

Christobel, too, quitted the chart room to visit his patients. He had said very little while he sat there, and Elsie did not know whether to laugh or cry at the tragic comedy of her environment. She was only certain of one thing—she would like to box Boyle's ears. She was completely at a loss to account for his persistent efforts to drag in references to their prior conversation. She dared not catch him. That would be piling up more difficulties for the future. But what possessed him to blurt out such embarrassing details in the presence of the two men whom she most wished to remain in ignorance of them?

She peeped at Boyle sideways. His eyes were closed, the clear was between his teeth, and he had a broad grin on his face. She could not guess that the once taciturn chief officer of the Kansas was saying to himself:

"My grandfather, how I'll grieve there will be trouble on this ship about a woman before long or I'm a Dutchman. Ah! didn't the skipper rise

Digest That Food

Every symptom of indigestion is due to undigested food. To food that ferments and forms gas; to food that hardens and irritates; to food that decays and poisons. To stop those symptoms, let Kodol digest that food.

We guarantee the action of Kodol. Please note the offer below.

We claim that Kodol does all that a healthy stomach can do. That it digests my food, at once and completely.

Please prove this at our risk. Eat what you need of the food that you want, and note how Kodol acts. Note the absence of pain, of fermentation, of gas.

Don't doubt facts that mean a great deal to you, when they are easily proved.

There are many ways to digest part of the food but Kodol alone digests all of it.

Pepsin digests albumen, but not starch or fat. So the many digestors depending almost solely on pepsin are only partial helps.

A complete digester must be a liquid, for some of the needed elements can't be given dry. They must be preserved in glass.

That is why Kodol is liquid, like the digestive juices. The result is, its action is instant. It even begins in the mouth, by starting the flow of saliva.

The cure of indigestion requires, above all, that you relieve the stomach.

Tonics and stimulants only spur it to action, like whipping a tired horse. Weak organs never gain strength by forcing.

But digestion is necessary, also the food grows hard and irritates the stomach lining. It ferments, and forms gas, and breeds germs. It decays, and loads the blood with poisons. And all the food that fails to digest fails to nourish you.

Your digestive powers are bound to grow weaker so long as those conditions continue.

A weak stomach must have rest. Treat it like a lame child. Don't tax it. Don't allow undigested food to disturb it. Let Kodol, for a little time, do the stomach's work. Then note how quickly nature cures, when it has the chance.

Some people try to relieve the stomach by dieting, but that means partial starvation.

The body requires variety in food, and when you limit that variety you are robbing some part. That isn't the way to gain strength.

A person who suffers from indigestion needs nourishment. Needs it more than a well person. The right way is to eat the food you need, then let Kodol digest it.

Please don't judge Kodol by any other form of digester. In Kodol alone are all the needed elements brought into combination. Nothing else does all that the healthy stomach will do. Nothing else brings complete relief.

The power of Kodol is easy to prove. Buy a large bottle, and ask for the signed guarantee. If it does all we claim, think what it means to you. If it doesn't, take the empty bottle back with the warrant, and your druggist will return your money.

This offer applies to the large bottle only, and to but one in a family. That is enough to prove. Then please tell your friends what a help you have found.

Kodol is prepared at the laboratories of E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago. The $1.00 bottle contains 2½ times as much as the 50c bottle.

ULYSSES S. GRANT AND HIS BIRTHPLACE AT POINT PLEASANT, O.
On April 27, 1822, was born at Point Pleasant, Ohio, that great military leader and statesman, Ulysses Simpson Grant. The days of the civil strife in the United States are over and there is healing the national wound. The generations who fought so valiantly, both north and south, are giving place to a generation whose chief concern is the preservation of a national unity.
Today both north and south respect and admire the leaders in that terrible conflict. Robert E. Lee is honored as much in the north today as in the south; just so is the dauntless Grant universally honored for his sterling qualities. Grant's life reads like a fairy tale. Born in a humble home, he developed by his own strength into an international character. As we trace him from his boyhood through West Point, the Mexican war and the civil war, we find him bold, determined, successful. In financial affairs he was unfortunate. After the Mexican war he went into business with only moderate success. While in public life he succeeded in getting together enough money to keep him comfortably the balance of his life and then through the treachery of an intimate friend his financial bubble burst. The government provided him and his family with a suitable pension so that they never felt any want. His book, "The Personal Memoirs of Ulysses S. Grant," helped to recoup his financial losses.

The present generation of Grants are well known in public life and are an honor to the name. Grant, unlike many military men, was eminently successful in political life and today is respected as a man equally strong in peace and war.

DISCOVERED WELLS OF MEDICAL VALUE

Engineers Near San Antonio Believe They Have Found Radio Activity Water.
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
San Antonio, Texas, April 27.—Engineers who have been surveying near the Terrell wells south of this city report that as they approach the wells their instruments are deflected for a radius of five hundred feet and they hold that the waters possess a high degree of "radio-activity." Several experiments have been made by Prof. W. A. Noyes of the Ross Paleontologic Institute of Indiana which tends to corroborate their opinion. The waters are known to possess high medicinal value for certain diseases; they are very strong in sulphur and other minerals.
Considerable interest has been lent to these experiments by the report just received from Consul John S. Twells of Carlsbad describing the existence of similar springs in the small town of St. Joachim about eighteen miles from Carlsbad. The consul states that these are known as radium springs and possess wonderful curative powers. He states further that the Austrian newspapers have been devoting much space to them and that the Austrian government has taken possession of the waters and intends to build hotels there and make possible radium baths, which hitherto, owing to the enormous cost, have not been available.
The demonstration of the existence of radium in the mineral waters south of this city opens up the possibility of establishing an American Carlsbad in San Antonio. Over an area just south of San Antonio covering some ten square miles practically every well bored brings hot sulphur and other mineral waters. The baths at the Hot Springs, on the outskirts of this city, at Dilling wells and at Terrell wells have already been developed, and in the past ten years have been used by thousands of people. These waters vary considerably in analysis but show a temperature of one hundred to one hundred and eight degrees, and have been found by experience to have remarkable curative powers. Two of these properties are being developed now by a syndicate of capitalists and doctors and demonstration of the "radio-activity" in these waters will be pursued ardently as it is believed to be a most important discovery giving them a property found in no other mineral waters in America.
